Again We Say

"Buy Canned Goods Now"

And This Is Why:

For weeks—for months—we have been advising our customers to purchase canned fruits and vegetables.

We've done this for the sole purpose of protecting them against shortages.

Not only will prices be higher in the fall but—

Some things will be out of the market entirely.

Today we tried to increase our orders for such things as peas, asparagus, peaches and the like.

Were offered corn—and not much of it! On other things "nothing doing."

If we can't get them, where can you?

KANKAKEE, Ill., July 11.—
"Good-bye, Leonard! I'm going to

With that farewell spoken in his childish voice, 10-year-old Harold Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clarke, threw himself into ten feet of water in the old city quarry here yesterday afternoon and drowned before help could reach him. His friend was Leonard Hovelev, 5 years old, who was sitting on a ledge of the quarry.

AGED VETERANS SUGGEST SEPARATE MEMORIALS

YAZOO CITY, Miss., July 11. (Sp.)— Indorsing the state memorial movement, the Yazoo camp of Confederate Veterans makes the two suggestions that the building to be erected be reserved for the white soldiers of Mississippi and the negroes be encouraged to erect a suitable memorial to members of their own race, and that all of Mississippi's soldiers from the administration of the state into the union be commemorated in the building to be erected. The views of the local camp are set forth in a letter to the chairman of the Mississippi Memorial association.
The views of the local camp are set forth in a letter to the chairman of the Mississippi Memorial association. They in no wise detract from the hearty support the local camp intends giving the memorial, but embody the ideas of the Confederate veterans.

"We think it would be well," says the portion of the letter dealing with the suggested change of plans. "If such a monument were dedicated to the memory of all white soldiers that Mississippi has sent to battle since she became a state, which goes back as far as the Mexican war, when at Buena Vista the First Mississippi regiment immortalized itself, and far better if it should be a tribute to the white soldiers of the race only, while the colored race could do honor to the soldiers of their own race in any manner they saw fit, and we might encourage them in their undertaking."

"During the war the government realized the necessity of organizing the two races into different companies and regimental units, and in the English army, Egyptian and East Indian soldiers were not put even in the same division with the white soldiers of the United Kingdom. If then it has been found necessary to separate the different races while fighting for the same cause on the fields of battle, it logically follows that the monuments to victory should be separated."

"Mississippi has a population of two millions, about equally divided, we believe, so that 50 cents apiece from each individual would create a fund of $1, 000,000 quite enough to erect two grand memorial buildings."

TREATY FOR TREATY

President Looks for Ratification With Few Reservations and Says League Doesn't Bind U. S. to Fight.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.
(Special Correspondent of the News Scimitar.)

WASHINGTON, July 11.—President Wilson has turned over a new leaf. For the first time since May, 1917, he saw the Washington correspondents today and talked fully and frankly about pending questions. For more than an hour he discussed the peace treaty and league of nations, and while some of his remarks indicate that he has not finally made up his mind for a number of things, nevertheless he is definite and positive in his expectations that the senate will ratify the treaty without objectionable reservations.

What President Said.

In a nutshell the sum total of the president's outgiving of news amounts to this:

First—There is just a chance that the ban on liquor will be passed between now and Jan. 1 when the constitutional amendment on prohibition will go into effect. Mr. Wilson spoke of the demobilization process as a long one and dependent upon Germany's part in carrying out certain military provisions of the treaty.

Second—The president made it quite clear that he doesn't intend to hold as a condition precedent to the ratification of the league of nations the enforcing of the executive order which he issued on the 10th of June, 1917, prohibiting the export of munitions to Germany.

Third—The president used one supposition which has been general in this country, namely, that the league of nations binds the United States to go to war without action by congress.

Fourth—The president thinks the French would be cut to the heart if America failed to ratify the defensive agreement. He told the correspondents not to call it an alliance. He believes it is not an alliance. His explanation was that it merely bridges the gap between the present and the time when the league will be in operation, a pledge to help France in the immediate future if Germany misbehaves again.

Fifth—Mr. Wilson spoke of the league of nations as a formula which will be followed in the treaties with Bulgaria and Austria and Turkey as a means of enforcing those pacts. Again he brought out that the league of nations is closely interwoven in the whole fabric of preserving the peace that had been written. He did not hesitate to make it plain that while the United States has not been at war with Bulgaria and Turkey, responsibilities will develop on us through the league of nations to make the United States a party to the arrangements made with Turkey and Austria and Bulgaria.

Sixth—The president rather surprised his hearers by his insistence that it would take a two-thirds vote and not a majority vote to ratify the peace treaty.
Men on Capitol Hill have been saying the opposite.

Thinks Majority Enough.

Senator Lodge has said that when the debate began on the text or phraseology of the ratifying resolution, amendments would be offered such as perhaps a provision to eliminate article 16 of the league covenant. Mr. Lodge thinks a majority vote would not such an amendment into the ratifying resolution, so that when it came to voting on the whole thing the Democrats would be obliged to vote for it as written or be responsible for delaying ratification.

Mr. Wilson thinks, presumably, that the Democrats by threatening to withhold enough votes, would make it clear that no ratifying resolution containing the amendments would be necessary.
Mr. Wilson made it very clear, too, that the reservations would have to be acceptable to the allies and the main inference of his remarks was that if matters got into a tangle he would submit the amendments to the foreign governments and the responsibility for the delay incident to such a negotiation would fall upon those who were seeking to amend.

But as the interview closed the president smilingly reiterated his confidence that the senate would ratify. He hasn't a bit of a doubt on the subject, or at least he doesn't show any.

ALLIED COUNCIL SEES
FIUME PROBE BOARD

PARIS, July 11. (By the Associated Press.)—The allied supreme council received yesterday Gen. Naulin, of France; Gen. Dirolbont, of Italy; Maj.- Gen. Sir H. E. Watts, of England; and Maj.-Gen. Charles F. Summerall, of the United States, forming the commission to investigate recent incidents at Fiume. The commission will leave Paris today for the Adriatic.

Afterward the council heard Capt.
Andre Tardieu, of France, on the question of the Austrian and Hungarian frontiers and concluded its meeting with a discussion of the serial convention.
This, it will be recalled, was drafted by an inter-allied commission formed to study laws of aerial legislation, but certain delegations, notably the American and Japanese, needed supplementary instructions from their governments. The council decided to adjourn further discussion of the convention.

SHOW GOOD RESULTS OF SAFETY R. R. CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Results of the railroad administration's safety campaign, declared by Director-General Hines to be the most satisfactory, were made public today in statistics showing that in the first three months of this year 529 fewer persons were killed in railroad accidents than in the same period of 1918. The total number of accidents decreased 9,209.

As an illustration of the effectiveness of the safety campaign now under way, a report from the railroad region shows that one of the railroad shops worked, during the three months period of 1919 a total of 23,452 man-hours with no injuries reported. Another shop in the same region worked 665,139 man-hours during the same period, reporting only four accidents.

NOTED FRENCH FLYING ACE KILLED IN FALL

Press.)—Sub-Lieut. Jean Navarre, who was one of the first aces among the French aviators during the war, and who was withdrawn from the service because of his eccentric escapades, fell while flying in the vicinity of Verdun yesterday afternoon and died soon after in a military hospital.

He was about to land at the airfield at Villacoublay, when, in trying to avoid a collision with other machines, his airplane crashed.

Navarre was officially credited with bringing down 12 enemy airplanes, although the Paris newspaper, during the latter part of his service in the French aviation corps, credited him with the destruction of 15 enemy machines.

He was awarded several decorations by the French government for his exploits in action against enemy aviators. In April, 1917, after his retirement from the service, he was arrested and placed in a military prison, charged with having run down several colleagues of Paris with his automobile.

After his release it was reported that he intended to go to the United States as an instructor in aviation.

man ambassador at Washington as soon as diplomatic relations are restored, says the Fremdenblatt, of Hamburg.

at Villacoublay, when, in trying to
avoid a collision with other machines,
his airplane crashed.

ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

CALVIN, Okla., July 11.—"Doc" Chromaster walked up to G. V. Johnson here yesterday afternoon and asked, "Do you know Roop?"

When Johnson replied that he did not, Chromaster shot and killed him. A few minutes before Chromaster had killed his brother-in-law, E. B. Crandall, while Crandall was sitting on a cultivator plowing his field.

Last night Chromaster's body was found sitting against a log near his home. He had apparently shot himself with the same rifle with which he had killed the other two. No motive for the crime is known.
